

Brethren:

December, 1994

As the year draws to a close, I urge you each to contemplate renewal in your lives. Face each day with enthusiasm and optimism. Look at old situations with new eyes. Seek out pleasure in little tasks and ordinary events. We can get out of life exactly what we THINK we can. I believe that, in order for us to find contentment, we must seek it with the attitude that it does exist, that it is ours for the asking. But we must first adopt an attitude of renewal.

Therefore, I charge you each, as masters, members, masons and men to fulfill your role in the lodge in such a way that each person will find new meaning in being part of this fraternal order, and that those whose commitment has waned will be renewed by your encouragement and enthusiasm. May you each seek renewal and become renewed.

Fraternally,
E. Lee Myers, Worshipful Master
