

My Brother,

Within proper bounds; Masons may and should welcome publicity. A secret society is one which seeks to conceal its existence and its objects. Freemasonry is not such a society and is secret only as to the obligations, means of recognition, ballots upon candidates, and forms and ceremonies observed in conferring degrees. With the exception of those particulars, Masonry has no reservations from the public. As to everything else -- its design, its moral and religious tenets and the doctrines taught by it, the time and place of its meetings, the names of the officers of a Lodge and those belonging to it -- are all in no way secret and may be known by anyone.

We should then let our actions and presence be known to the world at large, so our fraternity can be looked upon favorably, as an organization that does good for the community and is there for those who need a helping hand.

Fraternally
W. Louis Henry
Worshipful Master
