From the Master Jack Riddle

GREETINGS FROM THE EAST:

We are the stewards of Freemasonry for future generations. It is an important statement, but one that can easily be misconstrued. Some will take it to mean that we are to preserve the craft as it is now or as it were in the years before. There are those that want to center solely on the past, and ignore the future. They focus on where we have been rather than where we are going. Now, before I go too far down this path, let it be certain that I am in no way implying the past should be forgotten or cast aside. Nothing could be further from the truth, for our history defines us! Yet, it is merely one side of the equation; only a part of the sum. Our future and present are as important as our past much in the same way that current and new brothers are as necessary as those that came before them.

Our craft is based on certain landmarks that are static, and cannot be diverged from without compromising the spirit of this fraternity. Those landmarks, the foundation of Freemasonry, should indeed be steadfast. However, this notion of rigid inflexibility is often unnecessarily applied to all aspects of the lodge and its activities.

The phrase “the Suburban way” is spoken often in our lodge, and the spirit in which it is used is noble even if its meaning is anything but definite. What “the Suburban way” is will differ depending on who you ask. I am sure we are not alone in this dilemma, as it is certainly a difficulty faced by any organization, Masonic or otherwise, comprised of those that are passionate to preserve the past as they know it to be. The trouble is that these traditions, no matter how minor or unimportant they may be, are heartily clung to as though the entire edifice of Freemasonry would come tumbling down should they not be adhered to; as if a single action or word could contain such power!

Many traditions are important—they have meaning for those that started them, and for those that continue them onward. However, not everything that has been done over and over in the same fashion is necessarily meaningful nor worthy to be designated as a tradition. Yet, it seems practically anything related to the lodge is regulated as such and thus is treated as though it were a landmark: rigid and unwavering. Of course, there is no ill intention in doing so, it is merely to preserve the past—“To carry on “the Suburban way.”

However, my brothers who so long to maintain such history neglect the past themselves! They forget that once upon a time, there were no burgundy jackets adorning our officers. They do not remember that the social club and fish fry did not come about until years after lodge was chartered. They fail to recall that we did not always enjoy such kinship and trade degree work with lodges in Indiana and Tennessee, or create gift bags for our widows, or have a chili cook-off or any number of great things this lodge does. Indeed, our lodge's history is rich with improvements and innovations. Were it not, it might surely have faltered long ago. As we move into the future, we must bring along all the great things this lodge and fraternity have done and can offer, be strong enough to leave behind that which is unnecessary, irrelevant, or broken and to evolve into a fraternity that continues to have value for men of decades to come.

A hymn from my church's service this morning contained the lyric, "My foot carries days of old into new, our dreaming shows us the way." What a beautiful way to express the importance of the past and the vision of the future. There is another meaning in this line as well; we cannot go back. We must move forward or we do not move at all. Once we become stagnate, are no longer relevant, we will no longer attract new men to the craft and we will fall.

I have faith that this will not happen. Perhaps we have momentarily lost our way, and the size of our beloved fraternity is a fraction of what it once was. However, our feet will carry the days of old--when Freemasonry was on the rise--into the new, and our dreaming of how the fraternity can be in the future will show us the way. We will remember that our organization has changed over time to stay relevant to both the men whom have long stood as pillars in this institution as well as those just being placed in the Northeast corner, and we will once again discover a way to find the necessary balance; to carry forth the important principles and traditions without fear of the necessary changes just as our forefathers have done. These things we must do, for we are the stewards of Freemasonry for future generations.

Have you met:
Clinton Kyle
Carrier, PM

by
Bill Harvey, PM

This month our person of interest is our Junior Past Master, Clinton Kyle Carrier. Clinton was born here in Louisville on December 17, 1980. He attended elementary school at St. Polycarp and graduated from Butler High School. His next step in education was to major in Business Management at University of Louisville. Clinton works for PNC Bank as an investment counselor. Clint married the love of his life, Miss Lauren Canterbury on September 30, 2006. They have no children but do have a substitute: 2 dogs named Ruby and Phantom. Lauren works for Gould's Discount Medical.

Clinton joined Suburban 740 in 2007. I feel like he's one of my children as I was Master that year. He worked his way up through the chairs and became Master in 2011. He told me that the highlight of his Masonic career was raising his dad, Kenny, during his year in the East. He and Kenny are joining the Shrine together this month.

When I asked what he wanted to say to his brothers about Masonry, he told me that Suburban Lodge is a place that he looks forward to attending each week. Everyone is glad to see him and no arguments break out along the way. I want to thank Clinton for all the help he gave me as Master. He volunteered to cook the food for our suppers, freeing me up to do what a Master has to do. I'm glad Bro. Clinton is one of ours as he works hard at our fish stand and whenever he's needed.

I feel Masonry is being advanced by his love of the Fraternity. Oh yes, did I say that he coaches football for the kids at his church? Way to go, Clint!

GIRLS & YOUR FAMILY

by Tom Mercer
Junior Warden

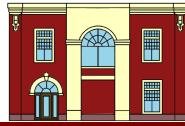

Greetings from the bright and sunny south, where we observe the sun at its meridian height, which is the beauty and glory of the day! God makes our day more beautiful still when He "paints his bow of beauty upon the canvas of a summer shower." God's rainbow always brings a smile to our lips. It reminds us that though storms may blow into our lives and leave destruction in their wake, as they have done so cruelly in our region of late, we can through faith still find beauty and grace enough at the end of it all to find the hope and strength to endure and build again.

In our Masonic family, we have our own rainbow, also known as Lorraine Assembly #6, International Organization of Rainbow Girls. In 1922, Rainbow was created for young women whose fathers were members of the Masonic Lodge, and their friends. For the Rainbow Girls of Lorraine Assembly #6, the basic teachings of faith, hope, and charity remain a cornerstone of this dynamic girl's youth group.

Through Rainbow our daughters, granddaughters, nieces and their friends learn not only to improve themselves and their self-esteem through their volunteer and charitable work in service to others and through gaining such skills as public speaking and leadership ability, they also prepare themselves to become builders of a better society for all of us. For the good of all, they deserve our support.

Do you know a girl in your family or in the family of a friend who might enjoy the challenges and rewards of membership in Rainbow Girls? Rainbow members are between the ages of 11 and 20 years old. Rainbow welcomes everyone, regardless of race, creed, color or national origin, and members need not come from any particular faith. Studies have shown that girls who are actively involved in organized activities with other girls (such as athletics, Girl Scouts, Rainbow Girls, etc.) develop a higher sense of self-esteem and are less likely to become involved with drugs or alcohol, less likely to have a child out of wedlock, less likely to become victims of sexual abuse, and less likely—in their future lives—to become victims of domestic violence or to remain in a relationship where there is domestic violence.

Please consider recommending Rainbow Girls for the girls in your life. Both they and the girls who are current members are sure to benefit from the shared friendship. For further information, contact Mother Advisor Rebecca Bartlett, or any member of the Lorraine Assembly #6 Advisory Board.
